The Finance Committee presented its report, and the first resolution contained therein recommended the rejection of the appropriation of $50,000 asked for the wer fund.

Mr. Guigon explained that the Finance Committee appreciated the bad condition of the streets, but the finances did not allow the expenditure at this time. There was about $600,000 left over to be spent for the issuing of bonds for the next four years and $500,000 would have to go to the new City Hall.

Mr. Boykin warmly advocated the granting of the appropriation, and drew a vivid picture of the indescribable condition of the streets in some parts of the city.

Mr. Gibson also spoke in favor of the appropriation, but it was voted down by a vote of 14 to 13, as follows:

Ayes-Messrs. Boykin. Brauer, Curtis, Davis. Epps, Gibson, Grimes, Grooms, Smith. Stratton, Thomas, Trower, Vaughan, Royal White-14.

By a similar vote the resolution was rejected appropriating $50,000 for the improvements of streets; also a resolution appropriating $160 for the construc-tion of a sewer in Jackson between Sec-ond and First, and in other streets of Jackson ward.

A resolution was adopted appropriating $907 for the construction of a sewer in Bowe street, from Clay street about 325 feet northward.

AN APPROPRIATION.

The resolution appropriating $15,000 for the paving of alleys for owners was adopted with the amendment recommended by the Finance Committee, substituting $5,000 for $15,000.

The sum of $616.50 was appropriated for the grading, curbing, guttering and repairing of sidewalks on the south side of Main between Morris and Beech streets. The amount of $3,203.20 was in a like manner set aside for similar work on both sides of Linden from Cary to Byrd streets.

A resolution was rejected upon the re-commendation of the Finance Commit-tee, which appropriated the sum of $1,539 for similar work to be done on Ashland between Reservoir and Randolph street. The resolution appropriat-ing $4.513 for similar work on Ran-dolph street met with the same fate; also the resolution appropriating $511 for the grading and paving of the intersection of Ashland and Kandolph streets; also the resolution appropriating $1,368 for the grading, paving, etc., of sidewalks on grading, paving, etc., of sidewalks on Randolph between Tobacco and Ware

The resolution appropriating the sum of $240 for the opening and paving of the alley between Henry and Belvidere and Main and Franklin streets, caused a good deal of discussion. The Finance Committee recommended its rejection, but the vote resulted in 21 to 7 against the rejection. The president stated that there was no evidence that a stated that there was no evidence that a majority of property owners had asked for the improvement, and the resolution required a three-fourths vote to be passed. It was declared lost, but on motion of Mr. Stratton the vote was reconsidered and the whole matter referred back to the Committee on Streets.

BROAD STREET SIDEWALKS. The sum of $369.77 was appropriated for certain repairs to the sidewalk on the north side of Broad between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets. The sum of $500 was set aside for the rearranging of the several sections in River View cemetery. The sum of $500 was set aside for the fixing up of the last soldiers' section in Oakwood cemetery. An amendment to allow only $250 for the purpose was lost by a vote of 21 to 7.

The Finance Committee recommended to reject the resolution allowing the laborers of the First, Second and Third laborers of the First. Second and Third markets the sum of $1.50 per day, instead of $35 per month, which they are receiving now. After some discussion, however, the resolution was adopted.

The same committe resommended the rejection of the application of the City School Board for an appropriation to place lightning rods on the school buildings. On motion of Mr. Gibson the matter was laid upon the table.

The sum of $5,000 was set aside for the grading and paving of sidewalks.

A number of permits for the crection of frame buildings were granted on the recommendation of the Committee on Fire Department. The same committee recommended to rescind a permit granted last month by the Council for the erection of a two-story frame building on Taylor between Reserveir and Randolph streets. The building was to be on Taylor between Reserveir and Randolph streets. The building was to be erected by Mr. A. C. Chesterman, and was to be used, as was ascertained afterwards, for a planing mill. The chairman of the committee stated that in the epinion of the City Attorney the permit could be repealed, but that the city would then make itself liable to damages. Mr. Schiley, one of the property owners in that locality, who had signed the petition to have the permit rescinded, explained the circumstances and the matter was finally referred back to the comwas finally referred back to the com-

The Council concurred in the resolution adopted by the upper branch, appropriating the sums of $6,000 and $20,000 to the salary and coal accounts of the city gas works.

On motion of Mr. Grimes the rules were suspended and the resolution taken from the table which fixes the pay of the hands of the Health Department at $1.75 per day. Mr. Curtis offered as an amendment that the same increase of pay will be extended to the hands of the Street Department. The amendment was lost by a vote of 9 to 16.

MUSIC AND HEADGEAR.

A Lovely Sight Presented at Kanfmann's Opening-Some of the Conceits.

The soft strains of Stein's Orchestra floated through Kaufmann & Co.'s establishment, at Fourth and Broad streets, yesterday. It was opening day—a day prized by the fair women of Richmond for it is then that they ascertain better than from magazines and illustrations what will be the prevailing styles in headgear. Throughout the day crowds thronged the store, and upstairs, where there were "loves of bonnets" and the "cutest little hats," was the Mecca for all the fair visitors. Under the direction of Professor Stein the orchestra rendered desired and the state of the s fessor Stein the orchestra rendered de-lightful music and the store presented a beautiful appearance. In niche and cor-ner, on counter and surmounting shelves, stood the stately palm and other plants, and the establishment presented a bower-like appearance, beautiful and bewilder-ing. I was the fortunate one to see the prettiest bonnet. It is a perfect little symphony in blue. From Paris, of course, It's nothing but one of those frame ar-rangements, without the slighest bit of It's nothing but one of those frame arrangements, without the slighest bit of crown, and the real white lace makes the soft, film-like brim. Then there were graceful bows of brilliants, and the irridescent stones possessed a black ground of light blue velvet. The bonnet was trimmed with bi-faced satin ribbons; the brim was edged with lace, headed with an ostrich band, and wide ribbons of velvet were there to snugly kiss the throat of some fair owner.

There was also a black velvet hat, with jet pendants about the edge. The crown is covered with jet and black lace, and jet trimmings make fit embellishments.

THIRD PARTY MEETING.

THE TIMES-RICHMOND, VA., TUESDAY OCTOBER 4, 1892,

WEAVER, FIELD, PAGE AND LEASE,

To Say Nothing of the Egg-Old Market Hall Filled-What the Speakers Said. Where the Audience Came From,

Old Market Hall was filled to the doors last night with an audience who came to listen to the Third party candidates, General Weaver and ex-Atttorney-General of Virginia Field, and Mrs. Lease, who has been making a circuit of the country with

The meeting was called to order by Mr. C. H. Pierson, of the Virginia Sun, who introduced Major Mann Page as the president of the meeting.

This gentleman, after a few remarks, introduced General Weaver, who was received with much applause. He was very prolific in anecdotes and Scriptural quotations, and little bits of blarney for all sorts and conditions of men, which seem-

There was the usual contingent of Third party leaders who have been prominent at these meetings lately, and on the platform was Mr. Walter E. Grant, the Third party candidate for Congress. On the right of the stage were a number of ladies, who seemed much intersested in the proceedings. I was told that most of the people had come loag distances, even as far as Mecklenburg, with the majority from Henrico, Hanover and Chesterfield counties.

On the stage were: Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Lease and Messrs. J. M. Ruffin, J. W. Penick, H. A. Muller, R. W. Harris, John Chappell, L. L. Lynch, Judge Fitchett, Major R. V. Gaines and Colonel J. Thomas Goode.

GLAD TO EXCHANGE IDEAS.

General Weaver said he was glad to exchange ideas with the citizens of Rich-mond. Twenty-five years have brought out new thoughts and new issues and ideas, and old thoughts must take their seat in the past.

He quoted Jefferson from his Declara-

He quoted Jefferson from his Declara-tion of Independence regarding self-evi-dent truths, that all men were created free and equal, not from Government, but their Creator, and endowed with life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. He went on, claiming that the people have the right to abolish parties when they become oppressive or destructive of liberty.

He defined parties as an organization of men for a purpose, and declared that new issues demanded new parties. He referred to the old Whig and parties contemporaneous with it, and claimed that the parties at present defy public senti-ment as being safer than trying fo meet the new issues.

He touched on the fact that the rich were becoming richer and the poor poorer, and went to explain why Congress should regulate commerce and not leave it to the States.

Our fathers foresaw that this would be a great commercial nation, and defined the word commerce, and went on in a tiresome way, making the audience rest-less, till he touched on the people "who toiled not," and so forth, quoting the Scripture, which brought out applause, which was renewed when he jumped on the banks and bankers, who, he said, were working for private gain, not public

He declared he was not making war against them, as a class, though, but only as violators of the Constitution, for they were as good as anybody else, and poss bly no better.

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Then the gentleman went on to the currency question, and rehashed all the well-known Third party views against the order of things, and went on at length to declaim in favor of the Government's loaning the farmers money on their crops, interspersed with anecdotes and Scripinterspersed with anecdotes and Scrip interspersed with anecdotes and Scriptural allusions to illustrate his point.

Much blarney was here used by the speaker in allusions to the Knights of Labor and Farmers' Alliances, who had shown more wisdom lately than lawyers, and he was a lawyer himself, he said.

General Weaver then referred to the end of the war, and soared high as to the pleasure it gave him when "brother stopped fighting brother," etc., etc.

He referred to the prosperity of the North then, notwithstanding the drain of the war, and the poverty of the South, which had been devastated by the conflict, and quoted John Jay Knox, Comptroler of the Currency, as to the respectroler of the Currency, as to the respec-tive amounts of money in the North and The speaker got a great round of ap-The speaker got a great round of applause by asking the audience what brought him here, and what had been taking him all over the country, and answered it himself by saying: "Put your hand in your pocket, and you'll see it is money." He then drew a harrowing picture of the poverty and squalor he had seen in the twenty States he had been ever and said something must be been over, and said something must be done to save our farmers from serfdom and our laboring men from becoming Going on to the silver question, he declared that the Senator from Virginia (Daniel) had voted to demonetize silver like the rest of the Democrats, and the Republican party said: "Me too," and like the rest of the Democrats, and the Republican party said: "Me too," and his party said they would leave it to the American people. All this was received with great applause, as was the announcement of his belief that we want a system of finance here, for the American people and not for Europe. He delared that the time had come when there was to be a choice between the money power, the politicians and the people, and the people would choose between them in favor of the people!

He closed with complimentary allusions to the "magnificent" audience, after claiming that the movement was a white man's movement, and too strong white man's movement, and too strong to be argued, ridiculed, or voted down. The band played when General Weaver sat down, after a speech of one hour and a quarter, and Major Page intro-duced General Field, as a Virginian and a Southern man whom the party were not afraid to place on their ticket. Gen-eral Field thankel the audience for their eral Field thanked the audience for their reception, and said that a paper in Richmond had said that he would not dare to come here with General Weaver, and he wanted to show The Richmond Times that he would dare to come here with General Weaver and not be afraid or ashamed of it. He would neither be afraid nor ashamed to go to the White House also with General Weaver. All this, and allusions to remarks in Sunday's papers as to the meeting last night, were received with apmeeting last night, were received with ap-

General Field went on briefly to extol the next orator, Mrs. Lease, and introduced the lady, a tall, pale woman, who, with a deep, clear voice that filled the hall, delivered herself of a great deal of sentiment and ellusions to her Irish nativity, with flattery for the Old Dominion and her past glories, the old landmarks, Magna Charta, Patrick Henry, Robert Emmet, Ireland's wrongs, the war between the States, and so on and

Then came the usual twaddle about the Blue and the Gray, and the taffy for the Northern and Southern soldiers, and her declaration that the politicians could not take up the asker of the war. rake up the ashes of the war and blow up the fires again, and those who wanted to do so were cowards and never smelled gunpowder, was received

Turning towards the reporters' table, Madame let herself loose with a Bernhartesque gesture, and declared that they represented a boodled and partisan press. (Boodled" is good.) Here there were cries of "Hit 'em again!" from the front

Then came a burst of Scriptural references, wherein she likened the new movement to the miliennium, and so on. She claimed that their macrings all through the West were more like revivals and religious meetings than anything else. The people were aroused and enthused, said people were aroused and enthused, said she, at the new Gospel.

she, at the new Gospel.

She went on at length on the old lines to tell of the discontent felt at having bankers and lawyers legislate for the people and their desire to try their hands at it. She declared that the same power nominated both Harrison and Cleveland, the power of the gold-bugs of Wall street, and of Threadneedle street, and of all other haunts and lairs of the G. R.'s. She paid her respects to the press again, and deher respects to the press again, and de-clared that they misrepresented every-thing and depended on passion and prejudice.

Here there were loud cries for cheers for Cleveland and Stevenson, which were given with a will, followed by counter cheers for Weaver and Field. Much toise and yelling ensued, which finally quieted down, and she went on with a frantic appeal to the voters to see that their votes which they cast for liberty and justice were properly counted, for that was the liberty for which their forefathers had left bleody footprints at Valley Forge. ley Forge.

On she went, pitching into everything and everylody, with stories, anecdotes and quotations, in the well-known rainbew chi sing way, prophesying peace and prosperity and everything lovely if the Third party got into power.

She took her seat with the band playing and the crowd thronging around her to shake her hand. The audience filed out snd the meeting was over
